

Arie R. Mielkus

Associate

Arie Mielkus is an associate at Dufford Waldeck. Arie has always had a passion for natural resource law and litigation. After three years of practice as a Deputy Public Defender, Arie is energetic to embark on civil practice. With her years of litigation experience, she is an invaluable asset to our firm.

During her time as a law student, Arie threw herself into her law interests and was President of the Women's Law Caucus as well as a member of the Public Land and Resource Law Review. She balanced these activities with several hours as a legal intern and a research assistant.

When Arie isn't focused on providing the best legal services for her clients you can find her running, hiking, paddleboarding, reading nonfiction and poetry, and exploring the vast and beautiful landscapes of Western Colorado with her family.
